

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

WINTER PROBABILITY.—March 7, 1879. For the Middle States during the rest of Friday clear or fair weather, northerly to westerly winds, rising barometer and slight changes in temperature.

THE TUGBOAT WAR.—The Baltimore American says:—

Commissioner Rogers yesterday began the examination of the tugboat cases. Hon. W. Pinkney Whyte, Joseph Whyte and Jas. T. McGlone appeared as counsel for the "blockading captains." District Attorney Stirling for the Government. The first witness called was Captain Cornelius W. Johnson, who testified that he was master and part owner of the tug James Bigler, and exhibited a certificate of enrollment of his boat and license from George town, District of Columbia. He was at Wells wharf, this city, on 21st February, and at a commercial wharf on the 22nd, and at each of these the tug boats complained of got in his way. At that time he was about to go out in charge of the bark Ion. He got out warrants against the masters of the Annie Bell, Commodore Dapont and John Taxis, Captains Spedden, Dabhart, Martin and others. On February 26th, when about to tow out another bark, they surrounded and locked him in; three of the tugs placed themselves in such positions as to entirely prevent his going out; the harbor master and then the wharfmaster ordered them to move; they refused to obey the orders of the first named, but did those of the latter, but in moving out the Dapont swung round so as to force the Bigler under the bows of the Ion. On the occasion, 21st February, six of the tugs blockaded him with the aid of a row, and when he attempted to pull out he was in danger of being driven under the stern of the bark Ion, and the John Taxis struck the Bigler twice. On the occasion Captain Spedden met him and said that he had come to tell him that he'd have to leave the city; witness replied that he would not. Captain Riel, of the Game Cock, said to him:—"You must not stay here; you are placing yourself in a very uncomfortable position." Witness replied:—"I can't be driven away; you tried that four years ago; I saw an American citizen, and take out the same license that you do." On his cross examination by Gov. Whyte witness said that he did not attempt to back out; he towed the bark Ion out the next morning. It was unusual for tug boats to gather around vessels to get towed. He didn't know that others had made contracts which he had afterwards underbid. Jesse Thurlow was the next witness; he was the mate and pilot of the Bigler; he was met by Captain Spedden, who said that he should not go aboard of him; that he belonged to the Tug Boat Association, and was prevented by his oath as a member from working here. Witness said that he would go, when Spedden knocked him down, and he would have come aboard, but that he was caught up by some of the crew and kicked him. On his cross examination, witness said he had been expelled from the association; he had to work for his bread, and thought he had a right to do as he pleased, and did not regard it a violation of his oath, he having ceased to be a member. It is then near 5 o'clock, the commissioner postponed a further hearing until to day at 2.

Captain Wm. Shaw, of the tug boat Alexander Jones, and Robert M. Spedden, of the tug boat Annie Bell, were arrested yesterday, charged with assaulting Jesse Thurlow, of the James Bigler, the Washington tug boat. The assault, it is alleged, took place on February 26th, during the tugboat war. Justice Farlow released the captains on $500 bail, each, to appear at court to answer the charge.

RIVER NEWS.—The steamer Harry Ledor, of the Farmington line, made her first trip for the season to day. She brought up a good freight and several passengers.

The U. S. schoobship Saratoga, which has been grounded in the Eastern Branch for a day or two past, got off this morning and passed this city about 7.45 o'clock. She was under full sail and presented a beautiful and very rare spectacle for these waters.

It is reported that the steamer George Henry which, as heretofore noticed, is to run between this city and Norfolk in opposition to the Lady of the Lake, will arrive here on Friday night. The bill to have the name of the boat changed to the "George H. Plant" failed to pass both houses of Congress.

WALKING MATCHES.—The walking mania, now so prevalent in many parts of the country, is "raging" now under the sun, as will be seen by the following extract from the Alexandria Herald of Friday, November 22, 1872:—"On the 21st inst. McMullan, who is walking one thousand miles and poles in one thousand successive hours, had accomplished nine hundred and twenty nine miles. On Sunday night he drank so much ale and was so sleepy that he was obliged to be carried out of his tent, and when he had done his mile he was quite unconscious of the fact."

CORPORATION COURT.—Judge E. M. Lane presiding.—Sundry accounts were audited and allowed.

Margaret Henderson was appointed guardian of Minnie A. Henderson and Jane W. Henderson.

A paper purporting to be the will of Wm. B. Richards, deceased, was presented to the court and a rule awarded against the subscribing witnesses to appear at the next term and prove the same.

Roberts & Bro. vs. B. F. Young et al; chancery; argument heard.

SECOND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—Rev. Mr. Cannon, of Leesburg, will conclude tonight his series of sermons at the Second Presbyterian church. The large attendance on these services steadily keeps up and there is evidently deep interest in the congregation. The discourse last night was fairly pronounced. The discourse last night was fairly pronounced.

THE NIGHT TRAINS.—The night trains which as heretofore announced are shortly to be put on the Virginia Midland Road, will not start on Sunday as was expected, but the new schedule will be arranged and the necessary trains added, as soon as the proper arrangements can be made with the connecting lines.

FIRE.—The house of the late John Y. Worthington, near Fairfax C. H., caught fire, on Wednesday last, and was totally destroyed. The family were absent at the time, and the cause of the fire is not known. There was no insurance of $700 on the building.

THE HEARING OF THE CASE OF ALLEGED CRUEL TREATMENT BY A SCHOOL TEACHER.—mentioned in yesterday's Gazette, has been postponed until to-morrow.

TEN YEARS OF HORRIBLE TORTURE.—Mrs. Sarah Haulon, of East 331 street, New York, for ten years bore, as patiently as she could, the agony of a leg swollen to four times its natural size, which was red and raw, and from which constantly oozed a blistering secretion. One week's application of Giles' Linctoid Iodide Ammonia restored the hideous member to complete soundness.

Richmond Tragedy.

John E. Poindexter, who shot and killed young Curtis in Richmond last Monday, had an examination before Police Justice White, yesterday, and was sent to the Grand Jury of the Hurdless Court for indictment. Bill was released and the prisoner was committed to jail. The Grand Jury meets Monday. The case of McGuire, who accompanied Curtis on his fatal mission, was continued until April.

The Richmond Dispatch says at the examination Mr. P. H. McGuire was the first witness called by the Commonwealth's Attorney. Whereupon his counsel stated that Mr. McGuire was under the charge of assaulting Mr. Poindexter, but that he desired to shrink no responsibility, and to justice to the living and the dead would answer any questions that might be asked him in the matter. But at the proper time he would extend that he (McG.) has been guilty of no violations of the law.

Mr. McGuire then went upon the stand, and Captain Wise told him to relate all that occurred in the office of the tobacco factory. Mr. McGuire then recounted his account with himself and Mr. Curtis entering the factory office. He gave his testimony in a candid manner. It seemed his wish to conceal nothing. He recounted every word said or movement made as far as possible, whether the same laid responsibility upon his own shoulders or not. He said he was pretty well acquainted, but not intimate with Curtis. When Curtis staggered, he, being in the same room, stepped up to him to catch him, but too late. Deceased fell to the floor. Later, when he begged that the window should be raised, so that Curtis might have some fresh air, Captain Lyon said, "Ah, but you ought to have kept him in fresh air when you had him there." McGuire responded, "About that I must be allowed to differ with you." McGuire saw no indication that Poindexter's firing had wounded Curtis until Curtis fell. "I couldn't see that he had been struck until he fell," said McGuire. As to the bulk of McGuire's evidence, it did not differ from that given before the coroner.

Captain A. M. Lyon gave a detailed description of the office where the encounter occurred. He stated that there were two stools in there. Captain Wise's questions seemed to lead to the conclusion that (McGuire) had thought Poindexter had picked up one of these stools to defend himself from the blows of Curtis's stick. Captain Lyon said that McGuire was in the outer office when the fire was going on, and that he (Lyon) was in the door—the door separating the front office from the rear office. Witness said that Poindexter and Curtis were contending. As to the body of Captain Lyon's evidence, it was the same as heretofore published. Witness had got in the room with Curtis and Poindexter when the former said he was unarmed, and Poindexter fired at him. He was then about eight or nine feet from Curtis. But the firing commenced at once, and witness was almost in line of the shots. One of the bullets passed through witness's coat sleeve. He did not not know that Poindexter's shots were effective until deceased fell, and then he was sure and that he was wounded only in the forehead.

The Early Extra Session.

It having been mentioned by a visitor to the President yesterday that much surprise and dissatisfaction was expressed at his calling an extra session so soon after the adjournment of the late Congress, the President replied that the proclamation for that purpose was issued on information that the earliest practicable day would be acceptable to the majority of the members elect, although it was natural that some of those re-elected and living at remote distances from the capital might complain, as they would not have time, meanwhile to visit their families and return. The President was indisposed to converse on the declared objection of the Democrats, through Senator Boock, to insist on the enactment of certain measures, as a condition for granting supplies. He had not yet seen the programme, and therefore could not pass an opinion upon it, but he could not believe, in the absence of such information, that any revolutionary movements were contemplated. He said, in reply to a question concerning the German mission, that the appointment would be promptly announced when made, but this would be subject to the confirmation of the Senate, as the appointment would not extend to other than his duties until confirmed, and as he would now have only a short time to wait. Although there is no official basis for the announcement, there is reason to believe that the President's message to Congress will be brief and confined to the subjects for which it will be convened, and that he will, at the instance of the Secretary of the Treasury ask that measures be adopted for an increase of the revenue, it having been decreased to the extent of ten million of dollars by the passage of the tobacco bill. The President said, but for that he would have twenty eight millions of surplus revenue with which to pay the arrears of pensions recently authorized by Congress. He was not prepared to state the exact amount which would be on hand, as the Congress would have to be examined to ascertain it.

The Lynx Tragedy.

FLUSHING, N. Y., March 7.—James Vothick, of College Point, L. I., went to Boston last summer, from which place she mysteriously disappeared about Christmas time. Since then all traces of her have been lost. Some of her friends fear that she may have been the victim of the Lynx tragedy, and her brother started on Thursday for that place to see if there was any ground for such fears.

Railroad Accident.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 7.—A broken axle caused sixteen cars of an eastern bound freight train on the Pennsylvania Railroad to jump the track over Marietta this morning. Four loaded coal cars were badly wrecked, but no person was injured, and all trains are moving to-day freely.

Dead.

HARTFORD, Conn., March 7.—Hon. Elin Barrett, the distinguished philanthropist, reformer and philosopher, died at his residence in New Britain at midnight last night.

To Be Hanged.

RUTLAND, Vt., March 7.—Gov. Proctor has declined to reprieve Henry Gravelin, the Wethersfield murderer, and he will be hanged on the 14th inst.

Fire.

FREDERICKTOWN, N. B., March 7.—A fire at Fort Fairfield, Maine, last night, burned John B. Traflet's black and other buildings. The loss is estimated at $30,000.

Superintendent C. C. Speed, Citizens Pass. R. R. Co. Baltimore, says, concerning Keller's Roman Linctoid:—"Its results have been rapid and satisfactory."

LETTER FROM RICHMOND.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.] RICHMOND, March 6.—The House barely had a quorum to day, and it was very evident that the members would soon make tracks for home; and to they did. Most of the members left for home, and it is scarcely probable that the House will have a quorum Tuesday. It is expected that the Legislature will be in session about thirty days.

Mr. John B. Bigler, clerk of the House, who has been ill for so long, was at his post to day. Mr. John E. Poindexter, who shot and killed young Chas. Curtis, was last night in such a fearful state of mind that physicians had to be called to him. He was in the police court this morning to once or twice shed tears and told his hands convulsively over his eyes to shut out the graphic picture of the murder which a witness was giving.

When the House adjourned to day many of the members went to the clerk and asked for their certificates of mileage. Mr. Bigler declined to give them because he thought he had no authority under the law to do so.

Attempts will be made in the House to tuck amendments to the McCullough bill, but the most earnest friends of the bill think it inadvisable to trouble it, as any such movement would simply cause delay. A strong effort was made in the House to day to get the bill on the calendar. The Finance Committee, to whom this bill was referred, will, it is rumored, report a substitute to the bill which will be the Barbour bill or a bill very materially amended to the bill. Some of the late dissenters say they will under no circumstances again, but will be content simply to discuss the bill. The compromise men will make concessions to them and let them take as much as they please. The sentiment of the friends of the bill is against any amendment, and many of them even object to the amendment.

There are no readjusters now. "We are all readjusters" is the cry in legislative circles now and no one can tell which side is the readjuster. The gentlemen who favor the McCullough bill say, "We are the readjusters, because we favor this bill to readjust the debt, and you are not, because you oppose it." The other side, composed of the old "simon pures," say, "We are the original readjusters, and we brought all this trouble about."

Mr. Michie, of Albemarle, who two weeks since led to the altar the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Judge Neece, returned to the city to day after a bridal tour of ten days of the northern States, and received the congratulations of his fellow members.

Senator Withers visited the Tobacco Exchange to day and was very warmly received. He made a speech congratulating the trade on the reduction of the tobacco tax.

Mr. John E. Poindexter, it is stated, some time ago had the pistol which he killed young Curtis, and he gave it to a young lady acquaintance to keep for him. The lady incautiously mentioned the subject, and it is understood it has reached the ears of the Commonwealth's Attorney, and he will summon the lady as a witness.

The object of the adjournment of the Senate was to give the members of the House an opportunity to go home and get instruction from their constituents as to how to vote on the McCullough bill. Its passage is conceded as a majority of the counties have come out in favor of it, and it is supposed the representatives of the counties will follow the wishes of their constituents.

It is understood that the reason which prompted the Governor to call the extra session right away instead of ten days from the fourth, was simply to save the State the cost of mileage, which would then certainly have had to be paid.

THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT'S MARRIAGE.

A special telegram to the New York Herald says the approaching marriage of the Duke of Connaught with the Princess Louise Margaret of Prussia creates a pleasant flutter of interest among all classes of the people in England, and more especially in the higher circles of the metropolis. The papers are filled with descriptions of the bridal presents and the expected ceremonial displays. The Lord Chamberlain is said to be almost overcome with the arduous labors of his high office and in perfecting the various arrangements within the castle of St. George's chapel at Windsor.

The Crown Prince of Germany arrived in England yesterday, and immediately proceeded by special train to Windsor. The Princess Louise Margaret is expected to arrive in England on Friday next, accompanied by her parents, the Prince and Princess Frederick of Saxe-Coburg. The marriage will take place in St. George's chapel, Windsor, on the 13th in the presence of the Queen, the members of the royal family, and the royal guests.

Among the latter, besides those whose names are above mentioned, the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, the King and Queen of the Belgians, and other members of royalty.

Murderous Assault.

NEW YORK, March 7.—James Nolan of 100 Perry street, while interfering in a drunken fight last night at 371 West street, was assaulted by John Cassidy. He received three deep cuts on his forehead, cheek and nose, and a still more dangerous wound in the neck. The flesh had been cut away from his forehead so that the skull was laid bare. Nolan endeavored to escape by running toward Perry street, and at length fell on the sidewalk. He is in a dying condition. Cassidy has been arrested and identified as the man who made the murderous assault.

A VIRAGE RIVALING IN YELLOWNESS That of "Maudie China," if it belongs to one of our race, can scarcely be described as attractive. But worse than this, it is the index of a disordered liver, of a liver that needs arousing and regulating. The remedy is at hand, prompt, efficacious. A course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will expel the misdirected bile from the blood and divert it into the proper channel, open the bowels, remove the dyspeptic symptoms which invariably accompany biliousness and counteract the rapidly developing tendency to dangerous congestion of the liver, which in turn, as the liver and whites of the eyes assume this yellow hue. The pains through the right lower ribs, side and shoulder blade the nausea, furred state of the tongue, and unpleasant breath which indicate liver complaint, in short all its disagreeable concomitants are soon remedied by the sovereign corrective, which in addition to its regulating properties is a superlative invigorant, and a pure and agreeable medicinal stimulant, appetizer and nervine.

Virginia Conference M. E. Church.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.] OSCEOLA, WASHINGTON, COUNTY, March 5.—Monday morning last four Methodist ministers took the train at Alexandria for the seat of the Virginia Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Before reaching Abingdon, eleven o'clock that night, the company had increased to upwards of twenty. They were joined at New River by Bishop Haven who is president of the Conference this session.

The quiet old colonial home was a scene of unusual commotion when this unexpected company arrived.

A fuller crowd you need never expect to see! At last they were all provided with rooms and the house became quiet excepting that some continued to tell over to each other the battle of the past year till it was almost daylight. Who would blame them? Some of them had hardly seen a brother preacher in twelve months. And what battles they have fought! For instance your correspondent heard one man tell how he had supported his family on $35 the last year, only $7.70 of which was paid in money, the balance being paid in produce, most of which he hauled 50 miles.

About noon on Tuesday the company started in farmers' wagons for Zion Church, 9 miles east, where the Conference is now in session, and before night they were all distributed among the country homes in the neighborhood of the church.

The day was charming, warm and spring like, and many were the merry making adventures of the trip and many the pleasant reunions.

One of the Conference, a man of prominence, has died this year. Rev. J. M. Adams, presiding elder of the Abingdon district.

The session opens this morning at nine o'clock and will probably continue until Sunday.

Having used Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup for the last few days, to my gratification I find it did me a great deal of good. I had a very severe cold which it cured in a very few days.
